To whom it concerns:

I'm writing this letter of recommendation in support of Glenn Gordon. Glenn and I became friends while we were in junior high and we have been friends ever since. If you are looking for an intelligent, hardworking candidate of outstanding character, Glenn is the perfect match.

As a student, Glenn was always engaged in our classes. He also showed the same engagement when we were both members of the Boy Scouts. As a friend, Glenn is fun to share company with and always keeps the mood upbeat. I'm always fascinated with his ongoing projects, both personal and for work. It's amazing to see him pursue ideas that would be overwhelming for the vast majority of us and then make them reality. Creating a kit plane from scratch, building an automated candy machine for his mother's chocolate truffle business or restoring a WWII biplane trainer from a scrap heap of parts with his father are just a few of the crazy projects I have witnessed him take on.

His relationship skills, along with his engineering prowess and business acumen would make him an asset for any company. I wholeheartedly recommend him. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,

Eric Glab
