To whom it may concern:

It's my pleasure to offer my unreserved recommendation of Glenn Gordon.

I've known Glenn for several years now as I have developed my own company. Glenn was absolutely instrumental in that development and changed the face and capability of the company.

As the company was developing an advanced aircraft, we faced several hurdles. The future of the company's manufacturing capability was uncertain. Enter Glenn Gordon. His knack for advanced modelling was impressive, to say the least. Not only was he able to do the job, but he was able to exceed all expectations, taking the company's aircraft concepts and making them a practical reality through use of CAD. Why is he great at what he does? Because he has initiative. It's one thing to be good at what you do. It's another to strive for perfection, no matter how close you already are.

In addition, while CAD work may be the basis for one's occupation, it's a problem-solving capability and in-depth knowledge base that keep things rolling in the right direction. With both of those qualities in his tool chest, Glenn propelled us further than CAD work alone could have. The problem-solving was apparent in the quality of the models. His vast knowledge base was evidenced in changes he had us make based on real-world application. After all, CAD models are only a stepping stone to a real-world product.

To sum up, I am very grateful to have met Glenn Gordon. His drive, capability, and passion for what he does truly transformed my company. Again, I am proud to offer my unreserved recommendation of Glenn Gordon in whatever capacity he may be needed. If you have any questions or need more information, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Thank you,
